

MUSICMUSICMUSIC / the swedish jazz trio

Biography

Three very talented young jazz musicians make up MUSICMUSICMUSIC. In their native Sweden the trio has been labelled one of the most vitalizing music experiences to hit the jazz scene in years. With a passion for experimentation and an ever present joy in playing, the group skilfully takes on classical jazz compositions as well as original work by the group's pianist Fabian Kallerdahl, who was rewarded with the "Jazz in Sweden"-prize for 2006. The group has become widely acclaimed for their refreshing lack of respect, humorous features and intimate live performances and has reached out to audiences far beyond the traditional borders of jazz music.

In the past years the band's dedicated touring schedule has covered the Nordic countries and northern Europe. The trio has also set time aside to perform in both South Africa, Asia and the US. MUSICMUSICMUSIC was formed in 2003 and the members of the trio has been the same since then; Fabian Kallerdahl, piano, Michael Edlund, drums and Josef Kallerdahl, bass. When released in Sweden in 2004, their debut album "One Two Free" was an immediate success with both audiences and critics. Since then three more CDs have been released; "What's a good boss anyway?", which was announced best jazz album of the year, 2005, by Sweden's second biggest newspaper, "Macbeth", released in the fall of 2006 and "Everybody Digs", released in 2008.

During 2007 MUSICMUSICMUSIC played a lot in Sweden and Europe and in September the trio recorded an hourlong concert for Swedish National Television. The programme also featured live-clips from MMM's premiere in New York that summer. In the fall of 2007 the trio performed at the Bangkok Jazz Festival and their music was released in Thailand by "Hitman Jazz". "Everybody Digs" – MUSICMUSICMUSIC's fourth album was released in February 2008 in conjunction with an extensive tour in the nordic countries. In the summer of 2008 MMM did a small tour in the US and made a successful performance at Rochester International Jazz Festival, NY.

In 2009 MMM made celebrated performances in Sweden, France, the UK and Iceland and worked on their 5th album "in Technicolor" (release October 14).
